The goal of the Rhode Island Tree Council's Notable Tree Program is to stimulate public awareness about our tree resources, to develop a database of our significant trees and shrubs and to educate our citizens about our botanical heritage. We invite you to participate.

To submit a nomination, the Council asks you to complete our simple form, and that you include a photograph, a circumference measurement and some notable notes. We urge you to partake with other Rhode Islanders in discovering and nominating trees you find to be culturally, historically or biologically notable.
